TABLE OF AUTHORITIES iii

I. OBJECTIONS TO PLAINTIFF’S EXHIBIT NO. 89 1

 A. Pertinent content of SCUSD interrogatory response that Plaintiff supplied as its offer of proof in connection with its Exhibit 89. 1

 B. OBJECTION: Authentication – FED. R. EVID. 901(a). 2

 C. OBJECTION: Hearsay -- FED. R. EVID. 801(c), 802 and 805..... 3

 1. Defendants object to Exhibit 89 on the ground of hearsay and hearsay within hearsay. 3

 2. Plaintiff’s citation of SCUSD’s interrogatory response making reference to the “SURVIVAL GUIDE” does nothing to invalidate the effect of the hearsay rule. 4

 D. OBJECTION: Lack of foundation for personal knowledge – FED. R. EVID. 602 and 104(b). 4

 E. OBJECTION: Lack of any foundational showing that the author’s conclusory statements are admissible as lay opinions, or as expert opinions (FED. R. EVID. 701, 702-705, 104(b) and 1008). 5

 1. Texts of Fed. R. Evid. 701 (lay opinion) and 702-705 (expert opinion). 5

 2. Plaintiff provided no foundation for admission of lay or expert opinions by the author of Exhibit 89..... 6

 F. OBJECTION: Lack of relevance and any foundation for conditional relevance (FED. R. EVID. 401-402, 104(b))..... 7

 1. Text of pertinent rules. 7

 2. The SURVIVAL GUIDE (Exhibit 89) is not relevant to the important threshold issue of the trial of whether anthroposophy is a religion. 7

 G. OBJECTION: Additionally and alternatively, Plaintiff failed to establish a foundation of conditional relevance of the SURVIVAL GUIDE on the issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion. 8

25 Wright & Miller, FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE: Civil 2d § 2573.1, 26 “Judgment on Partial Findings” 9, 10

27

1 Defendants Sacramento City Unified School District (“SCUSD”) and Twin Ridges
2 Elementary School District (“TRESA”) hereby jointly present their objections to Plaintiff’s
3 proffered Exhibit No. 89 in Section I below. They present their written motion for judgment
4 pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 52(c) in Section II. They also present proposed 5 findings of fact and conclusions of law in Section III.

7 I.
8 OBJECTIONS TO PLAINTIFF’S EXHIBIT NO. 89

9 “THE WALDORF TEACHER’S SURVIVAL GUIDE,” Eugene Schwartz

10 Defendants hereby present the following objections to the admission of Plaintiff’s
11 proffered Exhibit No. 89, a book entitled “THE WALDORF TEACHER’S SURVIVAL GUIDE,” 12 allegedly written by a person named Eugene Schwartz. But before doing so, the Defendant
13 Districts provide the content of the interrogatory response that was the only item Plaintiff
14 supplied at trial on September 12, 2005, as its offer of proof in connection with this exhibit.

15 A. Pertinent content of SCUSD interrogatory response that Plaintiff supplied as 16 its offer of proof in connection with its Exhibit 89.

17 At the trial on September 12, 2005, reference was made to Sacramento City
18 Unified School District’s Interrogatory Response No. 8 of Set No. 2 propounded by the Plaintiff.
19 That interrogatory was a supplemental response to Interrogatory No. 9 contained in Set No. 1. As 20 quoted in Plaintiff’s designation of portions of answers to interrogatories to be read at trial dated 21 September 6, 2005, Interrogatory No. 9 of Set No. 1 propounded by Plaintiff Plans, Inc. stated:
22 “Identify all DOCUMENTS, in the possession or control of the answering defendant, and its 23 agents, including all DOCUMENTS in the possession or control of individual teachers and 24 administrators, which relate to training or instruction in Waldorf teaching methods or Waldorf 25 curriculum.” The District’s response stated: “John Morse Elementary School keeps a file of 26 articles on Waldorf Education. The following is a list of books and magazines which are 27 available to teachers and are owned and maintained by John Morse Elementary School:
28 ...”¹ (Emphasis added.) This statement was followed by a list of numerous books and articles,

1 which list included “THE WALDORF TEACHER’S SURVIVAL GUIDE by E. Schwartz” (“SURVIVAL
2 GUIDE”). No other statements or admissions were made in this interrogatory response.

3 B. OBJECTION: Authentication – FED. R. EVID. 901(a).

4 At the beginning of the trial of this matter, the Court asked Plaintiff to submit an 5 offer of proof to establish the necessary foundation for its exhibits. Authentication is a 6 foundational element that Plaintiff, as the party seeking to have Exhibit 89 admitted, must 7 provide. Federal Rule of Evidence 901(a) states: “The requirement of authentication or 8 identification as a condition precedent to admissibility is satisfied by evidence sufficient to 9 support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims.” FED R. EVID. 901(a) 10 (emphasis added).

11 The easiest way of authenticating this book is to have its author testify. But 12 Plaintiff effectively eliminated that method of authentication by voluntarily withdrawing Eugene
13 Schwartz, the stated author, as a witness in its case.²

14 The only “foundation” Plaintiff stated as its offer of proof for Exhibit 89 was the 15 SCUSD interrogatory response, as quoted in Section I-A above. On its face, this interrogatory 16 response does nothing to authenticate the document that Plaintiff presented as Exhibit 89 as being 17 all or any portion of a book by that title or that such a book was actually written by a person
18 named Eugene Schwartz. Plaintiff offered no other evidence that Exhibit 89 was what it
19 purported to be. Yet even if the exhibit had been properly authenticated, the serious hearsay flaw
20 underlying this entire document renders it independently inadmissible, as discussed in Section I-B
21 immediately below. See 5 J. B. Weinstein, WEINSTEIN’S Evidence, ¶ 901(a)[02], at 901-28
22 (1996) (“A document is not admissible simply because it has been authenticated. For example, if 23 offered to prove the truth of assertions made in it, the document will need to meet hearsay 24 requirements.”)

25 TO BE READ AT TRIAL,” dated September 6, 2005.

26 ² See Court’s pretrial conference order of April 20, 2005, p. 6, n. 3, which cites to “Pl.’s Opp’n to 27 Defs.’ Mot. In Limine 13 at 1 n. 1” as evidence that Plaintiff withdrew the name of this witness. (See also,
28 the name of Eugene Schwartz which is crossed off on Plaintiff’s Witness List attached to the Court’s order of April 20, 2005.)

1 And, at a more fundamental level of foundational (see the discussion in Sections
2 I-F and I-G below), Plaintiff demonstrated its inability to establish foundational relevance that the 3 exhibit was what Plaintiff was asserting it to be at the time of trial, i.e., [alleged] stand-alone
4 proof that anthroposophy is a religion.

5 C. OBJECTION: Hearsay -- FED. R. EVID. 801(c), 802 and 805.

6 1. Defendants object to Exhibit 89 on the ground of hearsay and hearsay
7 within hearsay.

8 Defendants object to Plaintiff's proffered Exhibit No. 89 on the ground that it is 9 inadmissible hearsay with no applicable exception. Federal Rule of Evidence 801(c) states:
10 "Hearsay" is a statement, other than one made by the declarant while testifying at the trial or 11 hearing, offered in evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted." Federal Rule of Evidence 12 802 states: "Hearsay is not admissible except as provided by these rules or by other rules 13 prescribed by the Supreme Court pursuant to statutory authority or by Act of Congress." Federal 14 Rule of Evidence 805 states: "Hearsay included within hearsay is not excluded under the hearsay
15 rule if each part of the combined statements conforms with an exception to the hearsay rule 16 provided in these rules."

17 Plaintiff is offering this exhibit in the form of the author's out-of-court statements
18 as evidence of the truth that Rudolf Steiner held particular spiritual-sounding views. The policies 19 of unreliability and unfairness that underlie the rule of hearsay exclusion are present here. The 20 plaintiff did have the book's author on its final witness list. Accordingly, that author did not 21 testify to establish a foundation for his stated conclusions or for any alleged expertise the author
22 may claim to have about philosophy, religion or anthroposophy. That author is unavailable for 23 cross-examination. The author's statements in Exhibit No. 89 are therefore inadmissible hearsay, 24 pure and simple -- without any applicable exception.

25 Internally, the book is also replete with hearsay within hearsay in the form of 26 quotations and paraphrasing of statements allegedly made elsewhere by Rudolf Steiner.³ Near the

27 ³ The following are locations of some of the quotations of or paraphrasing of alleged statements by 28 Rudolf Steiner that appear in Plaintiff's Exhibit 89: page 5 (last 3 sentences) through the first paragraph of page 6 (note especially the sentence that begins, "Rhythm, Steiner tells us,"); page 13 obviously is

1 end of the exhibit, on page 64, the author admits how heavily he had been referring to [out-of-
2 court] statements by Steiner, by stating, “For the umpteenth time, I’ll cite Steiner, ‘....’”
3 Plaintiff’s Exhibit 89, p. 64.

4 2. Plaintiff’s citation of SCUSD’s interrogatory response making 5 reference to the “SURVIVAL GUIDE” does nothing to invalidate the 6 effect of the hearsay rule.

7 At the trial on September 12, 2005, Plaintiff asserted that its Exhibit 89 (SURVIVAL
8 GUIDE) is not hearsay because SCUSD’s interrogatory response constitutes an admission by 9 SCUSD as a party opponent rather than hearsay under Federal Rule of Evidence 801(d)(2).
10 Plaintiff appeared to be claiming that this interrogatory response somehow constitutes a 11 “statement of which the party has manifested an adoption or belief in its truth,” under 12 subparagraph (B) of rule 801(d)(2). FED. R. EVID. 801(d)(2)(B). But a mere statement about 13 possession and the availability of the book to teachers does not amount to an admission by the 14 District that the entire contents of an entire book are true and are adopted as the statements of the 15 District itself. At most, the interrogatory response indicates that the SURVIVAL GUIDE was 16 available as a mere reference book, along with many other books. There is no further statement 17 in the response indicating that the teachers were informed that they were expected to read it, let 18 alone follow its teachings and accept them as the District’s own statements. The interrogatory 19 response simply does not extend that far – by any stretch of any reasonable person’s imagination.

20 D. OBJECTION: Lack of foundation for personal knowledge – FED. R. EVID.
21 602 and 104(b).

22 Federal Rule of Evidence 602 states: “A witness may not testify to a matter unless 23 evidence is introduced sufficient to support a finding that the witness has personal knowledge of 24 the matter. Evidence to prove personal knowledge may, but need not, consist of the witness’ own 25 testimony. This rule is subject to the provisions of rule 703, relating to opinion testimony by 26 expert witnesses.”

27 attempting to paraphrase contents of Steiner’s book, KNOWLEDGE OF HIGHER WORLDS; the last sentence 28 of page 14 and the first two paragraphs of page 15 include paraphrasing and directly quoted words of Steiner; page 20 paraphrases “remarks” allegedly made by Steiner; and other similar paraphrasing or quotes from Steiner also appear on pages 27, 28, 30, 39, 46, 50 and 54.

1 If all this book is supposed to do in this case is show the personal views of an
2 individual named Eugene Schwartz, it is irrelevant (see discussion of relevance in Sections I-F
3 and I-G below). But Plaintiff obviously wanted this exhibit to serve a different purpose – to 4 establish the views of Rudolf Steiner indirectly, and thereby establish the views of 5 anthroposophists in general indirectly, and further establish that any such views constitute a 6 religious creed or dogma--indirectly. This exhibit cannot possibly satisfy Plaintiff's heavy
7 expectation for it -- since Plaintiff supplied no foundation that the purported author of the exhibit,
8 Eugene Schwartz, had any basis for personal knowledge. Without such foundation, there is no 9 way to verify that he is able to accurately summarize and paraphrase the various viewpoints of 10 Rudolf Steiner, a philosopher whose writings are difficult to say the least, or to establish that such 11 views constitute a creed or dogma that anthroposophists of today collectively accept or are 12 expected to accept.

13 E. OBJECTION: Lack of any foundational showing that the author's conclusory 14 statements are admissible as lay opinions, or as expert opinions (FED. R. EVID.
701, 702-705, 104(b) and 1008).

15 1. Texts of Fed. R. Evid. 701 (lay opinion) and 702-705 (expert opinion).

16 Federal Rule of Evidence 701 states: "If the witness is not testifying as an expert, 17 the witness' testimony in the form of opinions or inferences is limited to those opinions or 18 inferences which are (a) rationally based on the perception of the witness and (b) helpful to a 19 clear understanding of the witness' testimony or the determination of a fact in issue." FED. R.
20 EVID. 701.

21 Federal Rule of Evidence 702 states: "If scientific, technical, or other specialized 22 knowledge will assist the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue, a 23 witness qualified as an expert by knowledge, skill, experience, training, or education, may testify 24 thereto in the form of an opinion or otherwise." FED. R. EVID. 702.

25 Federal Rule of Evidence 703 states:

26 The facts or data in the particular case upon which an expert bases
27 an opinion or inference may be those perceived by or made known 28 to the expert at or before the hearing. If of a type reasonably relied upon by experts in the particular field in forming opinions or inferences upon the subject, the facts or data need not be admissible

1 in evidence in order for the opinion or inference to be admitted.
2 Facts or data that are otherwise inadmissible shall not be disclosed
3 to the jury by the proponent of the opinion or inference unless the 4 court determines that their probative value in assisting the jury to 5 evaluate the expert's opinion substantially outweighs their 6 prejudicial effect.

7 FED. R. EVID. 703.

8 Federal Rule of Evidence 704 states:

9 (a) Except as provided in subdivision (b), testimony in the form
10 of an opinion or inference otherwise admissible is not objectionable 11 because it embraces an ultimate issue to be decided by the trier of 12 fact.

13 FED. R. EVID. 704.

14 (b) No expert witness testifying with respect to the mental state
15 or condition of a defendant in a criminal case may state an opinion 16 or inference as to whether the defendant did or did not have the 17 mental state or condition constituting an element of the crime
18 charged or of a defense thereto. Such ultimate issues are matters
19 for the trier of fact alone.

20 FED. R. EVID. 704.

21 Federal Rule of Evidence 705 states:

22 The expert may testify in terms of opinion or inference and give 23 reasons therefor without first testifying to the underlying facts or 24 data, unless the court requires otherwise. The expert may in any 25 event be required to disclose the underlying facts or data on cross-26 examination.

27 FED. R. EVID. 705.

28 2. Plaintiff provided no foundation for admission of lay or expert opinions by the author of Exhibit 89.

The hearsay statements of the author of this exhibit are also inadmissible as lay opinion or as expert opinion in the absence of any evidence about who the author is, what his experience is, and whether he possesses the qualifications to serve as an expert witness on the issues of religion, philosophy and/or anthroposophy at Phase I of the trial. Indeed, the book's author expressly disclaims any intention of making broad pronouncements on behalf of any group. The first page of Exhibit No. 89 (numbered viii) states:

1 I want to stress that what follows are, indeed, my words. No
2 opinions are expressed in this booklet other than my own. Its 3 conception and mode of exposition represent a completely independent endeavor, not linked with any institution in the Waldorf movement—including, above all, my own school.”

4 Plaintiff’s Proffered Exhibit No. 89, p. viii (with page 1 of the exhibit). In short, the hearsay 5 conclusions stated by the author of this exhibit are worthless as opinions in the absence of 6 foundation for admissible lay or expert opinion.

7 F. OBJECTION: Lack of relevance and any foundation for conditional
8 relevance (FED. R. EVID. 401-402, 104(b)).

9 1. Text of pertinent rules.

10 Federal Rule of Evidence 104(b) states: “When the relevancy of evidence depends 11 upon the fulfillment of a condition of fact, the court shall admit it upon, or subject to, the 12 introduction of evidence sufficient to support a finding of the fulfillment of the condition.”

13 FED. R. EVID. 104(b).

14 Similarly, Federal Rule of Evidence 1008 states in pertinent part: “When the 15 admissibility of other evidence of contents of writings, recordings or photographs under these 16 rules depends upon the fulfillment of a condition of fact, the question whether the condition has 17 been fulfilled is ordinarily for the court to determine. ... “ FED. R. EVID. 1008.

18 Federal Rule of Evidence 401 states: “ ‘Relevant evidence’ means evidence having 19 any tendency to make the existence of any fact that is of consequences to the determination of the 20 action more probable or less probable than it would be without the evidence.” And Rule 402
21 states, “[a]ll relevant evidence is admissible except as otherwise provided[.]” FED. R. EVID 402.
22 By defining admissible evidence in this manner, irrelevant evidence does not fall within the rule’s 23 scope of admissibility.

24 2. The SURVIVAL GUIDE (Exhibit 89) is not relevant to the important 25 threshold issue of the trial of whether anthroposophy is a religion.

26 Exhibit 89 is not admissible because it is irrelevant to the threshold issue to be 27 determined at Phase I of whether anthroposophy is a religion – i.e., the important threshold issue
28 upon which the relevance of all remaining issues is dependent (Trial Phase II issues). Plaintiff’s

1 offer of proof on Exhibit 89 did not include the names of any witnesses that Plaintiff could call to 2 testify who would even try to claim that the SURVIVAL GUIDE constituted a learned treatise on the 3 nature of anthroposophy or that the book included any careful delineation of what the central 4 tenets of anthroposophy are, if indeed, there are any such central tenets. Instead, its title (THE 5 WALDORF TEACHER'S SURVIVAL GUIDE), its content, and its causal presentation of fictional 6 conversations between two Waldorf educators (rather than between scholars with expertise in 7 philosophy or religion), reflects that the book is intended to be a very practical, hands-on set of 8 suggestions for Waldorf teachers to carry out their work.⁴ In short, this book has zero utility in 9 assisting the trier of fact in determining whether anthroposophy is a religion for purposes of the 10 Establishment Clause and the other provisions of the state constitution that are involved in this 11 case.

12 G. OBJECTION: Additionally and alternatively, Plaintiff failed to establish a 13 foundation of conditional relevance of the SURVIVAL GUIDE on the issue of 14 whether anthroposophy is a religion.

15 Anthroposophy is the alleged "religion" in Plaintiff's case. At trial, PLANS was 16 unable to produce the required foundation for relevance of Exhibit 89 (under Federal Rules of 17 Evidence, Rules 104(b), 402 and 1008). Since PLANS is the plaintiff, it bore the burden of proof 18 in establishing what anthroposophy is in the first place, and whether anthroposophy is a religion.
19 Any mere showing that Rudolf Steiner or any of his followers, including a person named Eugene 20 Schwartz, personally held spiritual beliefs does not suffice.

21 PLANS was required, as a foundational matter, to prove that any statement of 22 spiritual beliefs or conclusions contained in Exhibit 89 somehow constitute beliefs that are

23 ⁴ See the practical rather than theoretical suggestions for teachers contained in Exhibit 89 on the 24 following subjects: (1) time management, pp. 9–14 of Exhibit 89; (2) improving student punctuality, pp.
25 22–24; (3) smiling and radiating enthusiasm in the classroom, p. 22; (4) homework assignments, pp. 25–
26 26; (5) increasing the artistic quality of children's work, p. 30; (6) working with the difficult child, pp. 31–
27 33; (7) teacher self-assessment in looking for patterns in the kinds of students who elect to leave, pp. 33–
28 34; (8) addressing parental pressure to alter the Waldorf developmental approach in the lower grades, pp.
34–36; (9) enhancing the learning of language arts in the upper grades, pp. 37–41; (10) improving interpersonal relations among the teachers on the faculty, pp. 43–45; (11) addressing parental complaints, pp. 46–59; and (12) strengthening each teacher's own, unique perspectives and individuality, pp. 59 and 67.

1 components of an anthroposophical “creed” or *canon of ethics*⁵ -- rather than the personal beliefs
2 of Rudolf Steiner and/or a person named Eugene Schwartz. But without that kind of showing,
3 Exhibit 89 does nothing to assist Plaintiff in supplying the requisite foundation for relevance of 4 Exhibit 89 on the important threshold religion issue in this case.

6 II.
DEFENDANTS JOINT MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AGAINST PLAINTIFF
UNDER FEDERAL RULE OF CIVIL PROCEDURE 52(C)

7 A. Legal standards.

- 8 1. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 52(c) provides the Court with 9 discretion to grant a motion for entry of final judgment before the 10 close of all of the evidence at a non-jury trial if specified criteria are 11 met.

12 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 52(c) for “Judgment on Partial Findings” provides 13 for discretionary entry of judgment before the close of all of the evidence. The rule states in 14 pertinent part:

15 If during a trial without a jury a party has been fully heard on an 16 issue and the court finds against the party on that issue, the court 17 may enter judgment as a matter of law against that party with 18 respect to a claim or defense that cannot under the controlling law
19 be maintained or defeated without a favorable finding on that issue, 20 or the court may decline to render any judgment until the close of 21 all the evidence. ...

22 FED. R. CIV. P. 52(c). The Advisory Committee Note discussing the 1991 Amendment, in which 23 subdivision (c) was added, makes the following statement: “[Subdivision (c)] parallels the 24 revised Rule 50(a), but is applicable to non-jury trials. It authorizes the court to enter judgment at 25 any time that it can appropriately make a dispositive finding of fact on the evidence.” FED. R.
26 CIV. P. 52(c), Advisory Committee Notes (emphasis added). “Granting a motion under Rule 27 52(c) at the trial stage is a decision on the merits in favor of the moving party.” Wright & Miller, 28 FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE: CIVIL 2d § 2573.1, p. 496.

25 ⁵ The Ninth Circuit’s opinion in Alvarado v. City of San Jose, 94 F.3d 1223 (9th Cir. 1996)
26 demonstrates that the absence of certain religious indicia, such as a creed and/or a set of moral obligations, 27 is properly considered in determining whether something is a religion: “The New Age proponents cited by 28 plaintiffs clearly indicate that there is no New Age organization, church-like or otherwise; no membership; no moral or behavioral obligations; no comprehensive creed; no particular text, rituals, or guidelines; no particular object or objects of worship; no requirement or suggestion that anyone give up the religious beliefs he or she already holds. In other words, anyone’s in and ‘anything goes.’” Id. at 1229-30.

1 2. Rule 52(c) permits entry of final judgment in a non-jury trial when 2 plaintiff has failed to carry an essential burden of proof.

3 “Rule 52(c), effective December 1, 1991, replace[d] part of FED. R. CIV. P. 41(b), 4 which formerly authorized dismissal at the close of plaintiff's case-in-chief in a non-jury trial if 5 plaintiff failed to carry an essential burden of proof.” Carter v. Ball, 33 F.3d 450, 458, n. 10 (4th
6 Cir. 1994). “The case law developed under Rule 41(b) [of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure]
7 between its promulgation in 1938 and the 1991 amendments to Rule 41(b) and Rule 52(c) is 8 applicable under Rule 52(c).” Wright & Miller, FEDERAL PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE: CIVIL 2d §
9 2573.1, p. 494. Thus, a plaintiff's failure to carry its burden during its case-in-chief remains as a 10 ground for judgment of dismissal. The early dispositive nature of the rule has been explained as 11 follows: “The text of the rule is clear. When a party has finished presenting evidence and that 12 evidence is deemed by the trier insufficient to sustain the party's position, the court need not 13 waste time, but, rather, may call a halt to the proceedings and enter judgment accordingly....”
14 Feliciano v. Rullan, 378 F.3d 42, 59 (11th Cir. 2004).

15 3. A party can be “fully heard” for purposes of rule Fed. R. Civ. P. 52(c) 16 based on an offer of proof without live testimony.

17 The Ninth Circuit has recognized that a dispositive finding sufficient to support
18 entry of judgment under Rule 52(c) can be made based the trial court's assessment of an offer of 19 proof: “We conclude the offer of proof was an appropriate means for the court to receive and 20 consider Granite's proffered evidence. The court was not required to receive live testimony.”
21 Granite State Insurance Co. v. Smart Modular Technologies, Inc., 76 F.3d 1023, 1031
22 (9th Cir. 1996).

23 4. Any judgment entered under FED. R. CIV. P. 52(c) must be supported 24 by findings of fact and conclusions of law, as required by FED. R. CIV.
25 P. 52(a).

26 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 52(c) further states: “. . . Such a judgment shall 27 be supported by findings of fact and conclusions of law as required by subdivision (a) of this 28 rule.” Subparagraph (a) also establishes “clearly erroneous” as the standard of review for the Court's findings of fact FED. R. CIV. P. 52(a). The “clearly erroneous standard prohibits the

1 reviewing court from “substitut[ing] our judgment if conflicting inferences may be drawn from 2 the established facts by reasonable men, and the inferences drawn by the trial court are those 3 which could have been drawn by reasonable men.” Lundgren v. Freeman, 307 F.2d 104, 113
4 (9th Cir. 1962). Thus, no automatic deference should be extended to inferences from the non-5 moving party’s evidence.

6 Conclusions of law under Rule 52 take a different standard of review than the 7 standard applied to findings of fact. “A district court’s determinations on questions of law and on 8 mixed questions of law and fact that implicate constitutional rights are reviewed de novo.” Perry
9 v. Los Angeles Police Dept., 121 F.3d 1365, 1368 (9th Cir. 1997).

10 Some intermingling of findings of fact at the evidentiary level, on one hand, and 11 conclusions of law, on the other, could easily occur -- especially in a case like this requiring the 12 application of various provisions of law to particular facts. But any such intermingling, even if it
13 were to occur, would not invalidate a judgment entered under Rule 52 if it were otherwise sound:

14 The fact that the district court intermingled some of its findings of 15 fact with its conclusions of law is of no significance. We look at a 16 finding or a conclusion in its true light, regardless of the label that 17 the district court may have placed on it. [Citations omitted.] In other words, the findings are sufficient if they permit a clear understanding of the basis for the decision of the trial court, irrespective of their mere form or arrangement.

18 Tri-Tron International v. Velto, 525 F.2d 432, 435-36 (9th Cir. 1975) (emphasis added).

19 B. Arguments.

20 1. Plaintiff was the party with the burden of proof on the issue of Trial 21 Phase I in this bifurcated trial – the issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion

22 As the Plaintiff, PLANS carries the evidentiary burden of proving that 23 anthroposophy is a religion. Alvarado v. City of San Jose, 94 F.3d 1223, 1226-1231
24 (9th Cir. 1996).

25 2. A failure by the Plaintiff to satisfy its burden of proof on the issue of 26 whether anthroposophy is a religion is fully dispositive of this action.

27 The issue for Trial Phase I is whether anthroposophy is a religion. This is a 28 threshold, dispositive issue that must be resolved first. For example, in Alvarado v. City of San

1 Jose (94 F.3d 1223 (9th Cir. 1996), the Ninth Circuit stated: “Before turning to the issue of
2 whether the statue violates the Establishment Clause, or the religion clauses of the California
3 Constitution, we must first consider whether the object in question can be defined as “religious”
4 for establishment purposes.” Id. at 1226-27 (emphasis added). It is for this very reason that this 5 Court bifurcated the trial of this case. Moreover, Plaintiff did not object to this bifurcation.

6 As stated by the Plaintiff and memorialized in the Court’s final pretrial conference
7 order of April 20, 2005, the alleged “religion” that is asserted to be part of the Defendants’ use of 8 Waldorf-inspired activities and curriculum at the subject schools is anthroposophy. Rather than 9 targeting a particular symbol or activity as “religious,” the Plaintiff in this case claims that 10 anthroposophy as a whole is a “RELIGION” and that this alleged religion permeates all of 11 Waldorf education, including the mere usage of Waldorf-inspired methods in these particular 12 public schools. Thus, this Court has correctly identified the threshold issue in this case (for Trial 13 Phase I) as the issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion – within the meaning of the federal 14 Establishment Clause and the California constitutional provisions involved in this case.

15 3. Although Plaintiff was “fully heard” on the issue of whether 16 anthroposophy is a religion, it failed to satisfy its burden of proof.

17 Plaintiff failed to introduce any admissible evidence to satisfy its burden of 18 proving that anthroposophy is a religion for Establishment Clause purposes. At the trial, the 19 Court requested PLANS make an offer of proof as to how it would establish that threshold issue.
20 Plaintiff’s counsel initially admitted it had no witnesses or evidence. (See Reporter’s Transcript 21 (“RT”) at 3:6-10.) PLANS sole proffer was the introduction of its proposed Exhibit No. 89 by 22 way of SCUSD’s response to interrogatories, wherein it listed that it had purchased a book
23 entitled, “THE WALDORF TEACHER’S SURVIVAL GUIDE,” by Eugene Schwartz. (RT at 5:22-25 24 and 6:1-19.) The Court gave PLANS the opportunity to come forward with other evidence on the 25 issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion. (See RT at 7:13-25; 14:24-25.) But PLANS elected
26 to rest its case. (See RT at 15:22-24.)

27 ///

28 ///

1 4. Even if Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 89 (SURVIVAL GUIDE) were to be
2 admitted into evidence, its contents are insufficient to satisfy Plaintiff's
3 burden of proof.

4 a. Unlike Fed. R. Civ. P. 50(a) for jury trials, Rule 52(c) permits
5 the Court – as trier of fact – to weigh the proffered evidence.

6 Unlike Federal Rule of civil Procedure 50(a) for jury trials, Rule 52(c) for non-jury
7 trials permits the Court -- as the trier of fact -- to consider the evidence in a light most favorable
8 to the nonmoving party: “. . . Rule 50(a) [applicable to jury trials only] requires the court to 9 consider the evidence in the light most favorable to the plaintiff, Payne v. Milwaukee County, 146
10 F.3d 430, 432 (7th Cir. 1998), whereas Rule 52(c) allows the district court to weigh the evidence 11 to determine whether the plaintiff has proven his case.” Ortloff v. United States, 335 F.3d 652,
12 660 (7th Cir. 2003).

13 b. Plaintiff's evidence at Phase I is insufficient even if Exhibit 89 is 14 admitted into evidence.

15 Even if Plaintiff's Exhibit 89 were to be admitted into evidence over Defendants'
16 objections as stated in Section I above, this Court must still find that Plaintiff has failed to satisfy 17 its burden of proof on the threshold issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion. The Court must 18 do so for all the same reasons that Defendants argued in Sections I-F and I-G above that Exhibit 19 89 is not relevant to the threshold religion issue, which sections are incorporated into this 20 argument by reference. Therefore, by the weight of the evidence, no reasonable trier of fact could 21 possibly conclude that Exhibit 89, a casually worded, practical guide for Waldorf teachers,
22 constitutes proof that anthroposophy is a religion for the important constitutional purposes
23 involved in this litigation.

24 III.
25 CONCLUSION

26 Because of PLANS' complete failure to satisfy its evidentiary burden at Phase I of 27 the trial on the threshold and independently dispositive issue of whether anthroposophy is a 28 religion, judgment should be entered forthwith against Plaintiff PLANS, Inc. and in favor of each
29 of the two defendants, Sacramento City Unified School District and Twin Ridges Elementary 30 School District.

IV.
FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A. Findings of Fact:

1. This Court bifurcated the issues for trial in this case, in agreement with the parties, in its pre-trial order dated April 20, 2005. The threshold issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion for Establishment Clause purposes was to be adjudicated before the remaining issues in this case.

2. At the final pretrial conference on February 11, 2005, the Court excluded Betty Staley and Crystal Olsen from Plaintiff's witness list since they were Defendants' previously disclosed experts, they were listed by Plaintiff as "Defendants Experts," and were not disclosed by Plaintiff's as expert witnesses prior to the deadline for disclosure of expert witnesses on April 16, 2004.

3. At or before the final pretrial conference on February 11, 2005, Plaintiff voluntarily withdrew Eugene Schwartz from its witness list.

4. At the trial on September 12, 2005, Plaintiff's counsel admitted that PLANS had not made any motion to amend the Court's scheduling order under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 16. (RT at 3:20-23.)

5. At the start of trial on September 12, 2005, Plaintiff was required to make an offer of proof as to how it would prove anthroposophy to be a religion for Establishment Clause issues with the exhibits and witnesses it had on its exhibit and witness lists.

6. Based upon its counsel's statements at trial on September 12, 2005, Plaintiff intended that Exhibit 89 be introduced into evidence in connection with the issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion.

7. Plaintiff's offer of proof consisted solely of reading into the record Defendant SCUSD's Response to Interrogatories, Set No. 1, Interrogatory No. 9. This interrogatory requested that SCUSD "identify all DOCUMENTS, in the possession or control of the answering defendant, and its agents, including all DOCUMENTS in the possession or control of individual teachers and administrators, which relate to training or instruction in Waldorf

1 teaching methods or Waldorf curriculum.” SCUSD’s response included a book entitled, “THE 2 WALDORF TEACHER’S SURVIVAL GUIDE,” written by Eugene Schwartz.

3 8. Plaintiff claimed that this interrogatory response was an adoptive
4 admission on behalf of SCUSD regarding “all sorts of religious basis for the Waldorf school
5 system.” (RT at 6:5-10.)

6 9. Plaintiff did not have any witnesses to testify concerning the contents of 7 this book, including its author whom Plaintiff previously withdrew as a witness.

8 10. Plaintiff put forth no further exhibits or proposed witnesses on the issue of 9 whether anthroposophy is a religion for Establishment Clause issues.

10 11. Plaintiff rested its case on the threshold issue of whether anthroposophy is 11 a religion.

12 B. Conclusions of Law:

13 1. Plaintiff failed to carry its evidentiary burden of establishing that 14 anthroposophy is a religion for purposes of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment to 15 the United States Constitution or the other California constitutional provisions involved in this 16 case, as stated in the Court’s pretrial conference order dated April 20, 2005.

17 2. The Court finds that anthroposophy is not a religion for Establishment
18 Clause purposes.

1 3. Because the issue of whether anthroposophy is a religion is a threshold
2 issue upon which the relevance of all other issues in this case depends, Plaintiff's failure to satisfy 3 its burden of proof on the threshold issue is dispositive of this action.
